Use Language Fundamentals to Reteach and Reinforce

As a supplement to your core language arts program

What if...

- you've finished the material on a particular skill in your core program and your students still don't seem to get it?
- there is an objective in your state standards that is not covered in the core program?
- you need homework materials to reinforce the core program lessons?
- you get a new student who missed a number of vital language lessons?
- you want to provide a resource teacher, after-school program, or tutor with language practice that connects with class work?
- you want to provide ongoing test-prep exercises as you move through your language program?

Language Fundamentals can meet all these needs.

As an at-the-ready resource for those teachable moments

What if...

- student writing samples show a lack of understanding of when to use the articles a and an?
- when listening to students' oral language, you notice the frequent use of double negatives, such as "I don't have no pencil"?
- you'd like to encourage more interesting writing by teaching students different ways to combine sentences?

Language Fundamentals has practice to address these skill needs.

As the perfect companion to Evan-Moor's Daily Language Review

Thousands of grade 1 through 6 classrooms use Daily Language Review for focused practice and review. Multiple studies show that this type of distributed, or spaced, practice is a powerful strategy for achieving proficiency and retention of skills.

Student responses on the weekly Daily Language Review units will indicate those skills needing further reinforcement. Language Fundamentals can then be used to provide the reteaching and additional practice. For example:

The student makes errors on week 29 of Daily Language Review. Your assessment is that the student needs more practice with these skills because:

- the student uses incorrect irregular adjectives.
